Great collectors put their trust in H.R. Harmer...

...including Alfred H. Caspary, who assembled one of the finest collections of U.S. and worldwide stamps and covers ever. Following his death in 1955, Caspary's collection was sold in a series of record-breaking sales by H.R. Harmer. Widely reported on by the mainstream media, the Caspary sales set a new high-water mark in philately.

H.R. Harmer was no stranger to important consignments; just a decade earlier, Franklin Delano Roosevelt's entire collection had been sold through the firm, bringing to market many unique and previously-unknown philatelic treasures. More recently, the famed Louise Boyd Dale and Alfred F. Lichtenstein collections were sold over a series of 25 sales between 1968 and 2004.

Today H.R. Harmer, with our partners in the Global Philatelic Network, opens up new doors to international markets.

You can feel confident when you put your trust in H.R. Harmer, as so many world's great collectors have in the past.

H.R. Harmer Realizations in 2016 ...

Three auctions were held by H.R. Harmer in 2016: two general sales and a special sale at World Stamp Show NY-2016, which was held in conjunction with our partners in the Global Philatelic Network. Across these three sales, H.R. Harmer offered a wealth of world-class philatelic material, including some items which had not appeared in the philatelic marketplace for decades. Prices realized demonstrated the strength of the marketplace when high-quality material is offered at auction.
